COLOR THEORY AND ITS APPLICATION
CEU NUMBER: 102338
WALKER ZANGER, GALLERIA #412

Color is like a language because it’s one of our most basic means of communication. To achieve the best results in use of color, it must be understood as well as experienced. In this course, participants will be introduced to the basic dynamics of color, its principles, fundamentals, psychology, and applications. Feras Inkat, Director of Design and Marketing for Lunada Bay Tile, will examine the impact of visual systems, light, and texture on color in the design environment. Feras will lead a presentation outlining the basics of color theory and psychology followed by an engaging discussion of how to decode colors down to their original DNA. OPEN HOUSE AT SOANE
SOANE BRITAIN, M-47

A confident use of pattern and colour can be seen in Soane Britain’s new fabrics and wallpapers. An intriguing antique kimon featuring an Indian design is the inspiration behind Elephant Temple – a bold fantastical pattern on linen – while a 1930s print scarf has led to the design of Bergamot Leaf, found on both fabric and wallpaper. These are joined by the addition of new colourways to Soane’s best-selling fabric collections. Step into the world of Soane at their open house to view and feel these exquisite fabrics for yourself.

PROTECTING ORIGINAL DESIGN: THE IMPORTANCE OF IP FOR DESIGNERS WITH DAVID ADLER
2 CEU
PRICE: $150 OR $275 FOR BOTH
SFDC EXECUTIVE OFFICE SHOWPLACE, #450

From furniture to floor tile, designers are taking steps to protect original work. Designers, manufacturers and employees need to know the steps to take to protect their designs, businesses, and profits. As interior designers develop signature styles and product lines, protecting original design is increasingly important. The discussion will address the line between inspiration and replication and issues related to protecting original designs (copyright, design patent & trademark) with competitors and manufacturers. Tickets at www.davidadler.eventbrite.com

Wednesday, October 7

PIERRE FREY, INSPIRING INTERIORS
WITH PATRICK FREY
SHEARS & WINDOW, GALLERIA #452

On the occasion of their 80th anniversary, Pierre Frey introduces Pierre Frey, Inspiring Interiors – the first book ever published about the fabric and wallpaper design and manufacturing company. Magnificent images in the 240 page book tell the story of the Maison, from its beginnings in 1935 to the present day. “We didn’t want this to be just another interior design book... we wanted it to be a vibrant portrait of our family, our expertise, and our customers”, says Patrick Frey. Reception and book signing to follow.
